The variable interest rate that remunerates each bond will result from adding a percentage margin to a reference rate, rounded up to 1/20 of a percentage point equal to or immediately above.

The variable interest rate that pays each bond in the last 6 semiannual payments will be determined until 8:30 am on the second business day prior to the start date of the new interest counting period.

The reference rate is determined by the maturity and amount weighted average rate of the last six issues of Treasury Bills, with maturities superior to 63 days.

If these securities are not issued for the considered periods in the last 28 calendar days on the date of calculation of the reference rate, another security which, by its nature, replaces the securities in question will be considered as the reference for the calculation of the reference rate.

The percentage margin to be added to the reference rate is 0.75% (zero-point seventy five percent) for the last 6 semiannual payments of interest.
